EVENT OF MUCH MERIT
WILL THIS CONCERT BE

At a special recital yesterday afternoon before a selected audience of musicians and friends, numbering a representative of the Review, Miss Lois Wilson charmed her hearers with a manner of rendition of violin compositions that was not only artistic and refreshing but likewise astounding in achievements for a girl of 13.

However, Miss Wilson's accomplishments and abilities are not to be measured by her years. She is simply a phenomenon. Her work ranks with that which any professional in high class and of mature years might be proud of rendering. In all departments of her work, Miss Wilson is well grounded and thoroughly at ease. That she has had instruction of very much excellence is unquestionable, as is also the fact that she has profited greatly from this.

Those who attend the recital of Miss Wilson tomorrow evening at the Y. M. C. A. will have not only the pleasure of hearing her but some other very excellent renditions, as demonstrated at the rehearsal yesterday
